

Are you interested in participating in IDD research?

The University of Rochester Intellectual and Developmental Disability Research Center (UR-IDDRC) has a research registry open to ALL individuals with any IDD diagnosis that are interested in participating in research studies.

Signing up for the registry simply allows researchers to contact you about studies to ask if you are interested. All study participation is voluntary and it is always okay to say, “no.”

The registry is also a great way to stay up-to-date on IDD research findings and opportunities.

All ages welcome!

What qualifies as a IDD?

Examples include intellectual disability, cerebral palsy, Down Syndrome, Autism Spectrum Disorder, Batten’s syndrome, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder AND any other IDD-related diagnosis

If interested, please contact our study coordinator at:

Lauren_Hearter@URMC.Rochester.edu
585-275-8749

Visit our website at: <https://www.urmc.rochester.edu/del-monte-neuroscience/intellectual-developmental-disabilities.aspx>

