

Joan Dolinak, MD, FACS
Medical Director, Burn Program
Assistant Professor of Surgery: General, Trauma, Critical Care, Burns
Upstate University Hospital

Dr. Joan Dolinak, MD, F.A.C.S is the Medical Director for the Burn Program and Attending Trauma, Burn and SICU surgeon at Upstate University Hospital. Dr. Dolinak is an Assistant Professor of Surgery and specializes in General Surgery, Trauma, Critical Care and Burns. She received her medical degree from Northeastern Ohio Medical University. Dr. Dolinak completed her surgical training at Akron General Medical Center. She completed a fellowship training in Trauma and Surgical Critical Care at the University of Pittsburgh and a fellowship in Burn Surgery at Vanderbilt University.

Dr. Dolinak is a member of the American Burn Association, the Society of Critical Care Medicine and Association of Women Surgeons.