

Anatomy of Hate Grand Rounds

Breaking the Silence: Dismantling Hate Through Restoring Community

Virtual and In-Person Community Restorative Justice Workshops

The Anatomy of Hate Grand Rounds series culminates with a unique opportunity to learn how restorative justice works to bring about healing in communities affected by hate.

Pedro Flores, Ph.D., a restorative justice practitioner, clinician, and healthcare administrator from Southern California, will host one virtual and two in-person circles on Tuesday, March 28th and Wednesday March 29th during which participants will take part in a truth and reconciliation circle to safely explore what's troubling our community and how to move forward.

Don't miss out on this chance to join a collective movement to help our community heal through truth-telling, accountability, and reconciliation. Reserve your space now!

Tuesday, March 28

12 noon - 2:30pm

- Virtual Grand Rounds - Intro to Restorative Justice & Community Building.
- Pre-registration required - <https://tinyurl.com/yc4z4yjj>

5:00 - 7:30 pm

- In-person Community Restorative Justice Workshop
- University of Rochester School of Nursing, Helen Wood Hall, 4W-506-508
- Pre-registration required - <https://tinyurl.com/2p8juwrb>

Wednesday, March 29

3:00 - 5:30 pm

- In-person Community Restorative Justice Workshop
- University of Rochester School of Nursing, Helen Wood Hall, Evarts Lounge
- Pre-registration required - <https://tinyurl.com/2p8juwrb>