These alternatives were collected from an ongoing project during the 2014-2015 school year. It took place at four different community sites throughout the city of Rochester: Flint Recreation Center, Lincoln Library, Enrico Fermi School #17, and Abraham Lincoln School #22. More than fifty students in the STYA program dedicated their imagination to this project. The general goal of this project was for kids to brainstorm - and therefore understand - how many possibilities there are for them to grow, discover their interests and capabilities, and execute them in place of unhealthy decisions down the road.
